

TOC H BIRTHDAY FESTIVAL, DECEMBER 11th, 1926

TALBOT HOUSE, POPERINGHE - OPENED. DECEMBER 11th, 1915

AN HISTORICAL NOTE.

Every Toc H member knows that the original Talbot House was opened in Poperinghe in December 1915. Hitherto the date has been assumed to have been December 15, as reported in Tales of Talbot House. Letters written by "Tubby" at that time (first published in the Toc H JOURNAL, August 1926) show, however, that the "house-warming" of "Everyman's Club" took place on December 11, 1915, and that the first Communion Service in the Chapel took place on the following morning: December 15 was the date on which the first "hostellers," in the persons of several officers, slept under its roof. The Birthday Festival of Toc H has always been held on the Saturday and Sunday nearest to December 15 (in 1922 and 1923 the Saturday fell on December 15 itself). This year, by sheer coincidence, the Festival falls on December 11, the true date of the birth of Talbot House.

A SYNOPSIS OF THE EPISODES.

The series of Episodes now to be presented typify the ideals of service and sacrifice which Toc H strives to uphold, and of which its Lamp is a symbol; they culminate in the lighting of the Lamps of Maintenance and Rushlights of Toc H Branches and Groups, bodies of men who thus take their place in the age-long succession of those who have tried to keep the Light burning.

PRELUDE.

An Organ Prelude introduces the Masque in darkness, representing the period when the world was emerging from chaos. The Spirit of Light speaks the Prologue.

EPISODE I.

The breaking of dawn is hailed by the waking world. We find ourselves on the hills outside Rome, at the time of the Christian persecution in the third century.

A faithful band of Christians enters singing a hymn of Light. Their priest follows and lights the Lamp which he places on a rock, used as an altar. He enquires after certain of the brethren and, hearing how they have died for the Faith, exhorts his hearers, reminding them of the ground and assurance of the Christians' hope that no persecution can separate them from the love of Christ. Kneeling, they all sing the Nunc Dimittis. The Christians are interrupted by Caesar's soldiers who lead them away captive, yet undaunted, singing the Hymn of Light. As they are led out of the circle of hills a small boy who has remained in hiding creeps forth and re-lights the Lamp on the altar. As the scene fades out the flame remains.

EPISODE II.

THE SPIRIT OF LIGHT INTRODUCES THE EPISODE.

The Chapel of Richard Coeur-de-Lion, at All Hallows, "Berkyngeschirche," on the eve of the Third Crusade, A.D. 1189. The morning light through the east window reveals four knights kneeling on the steps of the chancel completing their all-night vigil. From a distance is heard the chanting of a priest and the voices of the choir. During this singing acolytes light the candles in the sanctuary, and at its conclusion a procession enters the church from the West door: it is headed by cross-bearer and choir and contains the Bishop of London and other ecclesiastics, King Richard, Eleanor the Queen-Mother, men-at-arms and ladies-in-waiting.

The King takes his place, with the four knights, in front of the altar. The Bishop conducts the ceremony of arming them (using the words from Ephesians vi, 10-17); he then delivers a charge to them on the duties of knighthood, and blesses them before their departure to the Holy Land. With the Crusaders' cry of "Deus vult" (God wills it) and a triumphal psalm the episode closes.

(NOTE.—The sword handed to King Richard in this Episode is thought to be an original Crusader's sword, captured by the Saracens. It was won back by Lord Kitchener at Omdurman, from whose possession it passed into that of Lord Salisbury, who presented it to All Hallows' Church.)

EPISODE III.

THE SPIRIT OF LIGHT INTRODUCES THE EPISODE.

The scene is a trench in the front line in the Ypres sector in the winter of 1916. It is shortly before dawn and all is "quiet." The anxiously-awaited relief presently advances up the communication trench and takes over.

After "Mac," the captain in charge of the relief, has posted his men, "Binks," his subaltern, settles himself down to write a letter home, when he hears that a wounded man has been seen lying out in "No-Man's-Land." He at once crawls out over the parapet, followed by a sergeant. While they are gone the enemy is seen to send up a "Verey light" and heard to open fire with a machine-gun, but they return, after an interval, bringing the wounded man with them. In attending to the rescued man, "Mac" and his men do not at first notice that "Binks" himself is mortally wounded: with the words "A Light!" on his lips he dies.

The Spirit of Light appears over "No-Man's-Land" and speaks, in the words of John Bunyan: "Then said Mr. Valiant-for-Truth, I go to my Father. My sword I leave to him that shall succeed me in my pilgrimage. . . . So he passed over and all the trumpets sounded for him on the other side." As the Spirit of Light disappears the choir sing a Requiem, "How sleep the brave who sink to rest" (W. Collins, 1721-1759).

EPISODE IV.

In Talbot House in Poperinghe, 1916—that house which, with its daughter house at Ypres, "brought a corner of heaven into the hell of men's and officers' lives."

The Scene is laid in the club room, where, for a few brief hours, the War and all that pertains to it is forgotten. Among others present is Captain "Mac."

"The General," (Private Arthur Pettifer, late of the Buffs, Padre "Tubby" Clayton's batman and one of the pillars of the old House, now a Vice-President of Toc H), enters and pins a notice on the board round which all gather—the chapel gong rings and the company troops off to the Upper Room for family prayers. Mac remains and is recognised by his former sergeant—he tells how his wife has died and the sergeant reminds him that his son survives, and is worth living and fighting for.

The light of the Lamp falls on a Cross hanging on the wall. From the chapel is heard the singing of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Hymn," and as the scene fades out the audience are invited to join in singing the second and third verses (see page 10).

INTERVAL OF FIFTEEN MINUTES.

PART II.

THE SPIRIT OF LIGHT SPEAKS.

EPISODE V.

November 10, 1920, in the house of Mrs. Thompson, a widow, whose only son has fallen in action. Harry Smith, friend of the dead son, a disabled ex-service man who lives there, is complaining that making toys, the only job he is fit for now, is not work for a man, when Captain Manning, his old company officer, calls to look him up. They talk of old times, and both feel that the sacrifice of thousands of lives in the War has been fruitless: "Has there ever been such a failure before?"

Jimmy, a small boy, comes to have his toy drum mended by Harry, and he and Harry go off together to the workshop. Captain Manning takes his leave, after promising to meet them next morning, Armistice Day, at the War Memorial.

Mrs. Thompson opens her Bible and begins to read the story of the Crucifixion—"has there ever been such a failure before?" As she reads she sees—

A VISION

In a room outside Jerusalem Peter and John, having come from the sealed Tomb in which the body of Jesus lies, are bewailing the failure of their Master and the waste of their own lives.

The Madonna is rebuking them gently, when Mary Magdalene brings the news that the Tomb is empty; Peter and John run out together to see for themselves. They return, followed by Mary Magdalene, who tells how she has spoken with Jesus in the garden.

EPISODE VI.

It is the following morning, November 11, and Mrs. Thompson, Harry Smith and Captain Manning are waiting at the War Shrine outside a church for the Silence of Armistice Day. The choir is heard singing, and Mrs. Thompson tells the other two of her vision of the afternoon before.

As 11 o'clock strikes and they stand in silence the figure of an unknown soldier appears in the Shrine and speaks to them.

When the Silence is over the boy, Jimmy, comes up with a lamp which he asks them to light from the Lamp burning on the shrine; his brother is a member of a brotherhood which lights Lamps and remembers the Elder Brethren, and he too wishes thus to honour his father who has been killed. They light the child's lamp for him, and fall in behind the Scouts as they come out of church; youth leads the way.

WORDS OF THE HYMNS IN WHICH THE AUDIENCE IS ASKED TO JOIN.

AT THE END OF EPISODE IV.

THE PILGRIMS' HYMN.

Traditional Melody.

CHOIR ONLY—

*HE who would valiant be
'Gainst all disaster,
Let him in constancy
Follow the Master.
There's no discouragement,
Shall make him once relent,
His first avowed intent
To be a pilgrim.*

AUDIENCE—

Who so beset him round
With dismal stories,
Do but themselves confound—
His strength the more is.
No foes shall stay his might,
Though he with giants fight :
He will make good his right
To be a pilgrim.

Since, Lord, thou dost defend
Us with thy Spirit,
We know we at the end
Shall life inherit.
Then fancies flee away !
I'll fear not what men say,
I'll labour night and day
To be a pilgrim.

John Bunyan.

AT THE END OF EPISODE VI.

CHOIR ONLY—

*O Joyful Light, O Glory of the Father,
Holy, beloved Jesu Christ our Lord !
Now without fear we see the darkness gather
For that on us Thy evening light is poured :
All through the night, whatever storm assail us—
Passion or pain, despair and shame and loss—
Thou till the day wilt hold and never fail us,
Victor before us of the bitter Cross.*

AUDIENCE—

Never the path so lost, but in Thee only
Trusting we see, and seeking, find a way :
Strength of the tempted, Brother of the lonely,
From out our darkness, bringest thou the day.
Lo, having Thee, we lose not one another,
Sundered—united, dying but to birth ;
All worlds are one in Thee, O more than Brother,
And one our family in Heaven and Earth.

So shine in us, our little love reproving,
That souls of men may kindle at the flame ;
The whole world's hatred, broken by our loving,
Shall bow to Love, Thine everlasting Name.
Therefore to Thee be praises and thanksgiving,
To Father, Son and Comforter Divine :
We lift our voice and sing, with all things living,
O Light of Life, the Glory that is Thine.

B.B.

DURING THE FINAL SCENE.

I.—At the entry of Lamps and Rushlights.

THE BATTLE HYMN.

To the tune of "John Brown's Body."

MINE eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord ;
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored ;
He hath loosed the fatal lightning of His terrible swift sword ;
His truth is marching on. Glory, glory, Alleluia, etc

I have seen Him in the watch-fires of a hundred circling camps ;
They have builded Him an Altar in the evening dews and damps,
I have read His righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps ;
His day is marching on.

He hath sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat ;
He is sifting out the hearts of men before His judgment seat ;
O, be swift, my soul, to answer Him ; be jubilant my feet ;
Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born, across the sea,
With a glory in His bosom that transfigures you and me ;
As He died to make men holy, let us live to make men free,
While God is marching on.

Julia Ward Beecher.

II.—At the end.

JERUSALEM.

Music by Sir Hubert Parry.

AND did those feet in ancient time
Walk upon England's mountains green ?
And was the holy Lamb of God
On England's pleasant pastures seen ?
And did the Countenance Divine
Shine forth upon our clouded hills ?
And was Jerusalem builded here
Among these dark Satanic Mills ?

Bring me my Bow of burning gold !
Bring me my Arrows of desire !
Bring me my Spear ! O clouds, unfold !
Bring me my Chariot of fire !
I will not cease from Mental Fight,
Nor shall the Sword sleep in my hand,
Till we have built Jerusalem
In England's green and pleasant Land.

William Blake.
